reason why they should not speak of it. If he does not feel comfortable and happy where he is, if he knows the boys are some of them opposed to him, and he feels that he can do better and perhaps have better health some where else, no true friend could wish him to stay. Still if he should ask my advice!!
I should tell him to try a rest first and see if that did not make things right. I do not believe there is any position in this world where there are not trials to be borne. It will make a great difference to you if he should go.
I know, but like a good many other things that come to us there seems to be nothing to do.

May 11.

Your letter rec. Glad to know that you wore some flannel away. It is hard to say this weather what one wants, whether thick or thin flannel, no two days are alike and the difference is very wide. Wish I could tell Prof.
Kellag that I am very much obliged to him for taking care of my little girl, but it would be safer if she took care of herself because he might not always come along just at the right moment. I see you have more to do than you can well do. It had occurred to me that if you went to Prof. Le Conte and asked him to excuse you entirely from Zoology for this year and and saying that you would take it next year, or study it in vacation and he examined next year he might consent. I think the reason for your absence being what it was they will all be more charitable.

Charlie is not home yet. I had a line from him and expect him today. I guess he had been enjoying himself.

You can't think what a mistake I made last night.

Pupu seemed out of business and I handed him The minister's black veil in Hawthorne's twice told tales to read. He was quite indignant over that declaring vehemently that he couldn't have persuaded him to marry him with that over his face; and that the people acted like fools, etc. but the worst was when he read on into the next piece.

I had not noticed what it was and oh dear it was The gentle boy. who was a Quaker. It was as bad as Sewell's Abemairs.

I doubt very much Annie Head having any very definite information about Mrs. Lillo's plans. Most likely all she knows is hints. I have thought it possible that sometime he might get a position at the John's Hopkins through Pres.

Gilman as I believe they were very warm friends, but if he had anything of the kind offered him, there is no
